Client: Harrison and Taylor Accountants

- Interior Planning
- Efficient use of space
- Sympathetic Structural Arrangement

Brief:

SA were approached by Harrison and Taylor to design and advise on the interior refurbishments of their office space. The office is situated in a Victorian building, originally owned by Lloyds Bank.

Solution:

Following a survey to collect data on space and circulation of staff, SA created an interior plan to better utilise space, improve the working environment and also the overall appearance, particularly with respect to visitors.

Result:

Sadler Architects successfully created a modern office space environment which included custom-designed storage, signage.
